To the Board of Education:

You bought wisely and with great foresight when you built the Joseph Rodman Drake Public School (No. 48),—the largest in New York City-for 4,000 pupils, opposite the famous Dickey Estate on Hunts Point Avenue, within three blocks of Hunts Point Square, and subway station.

This section in a comparatively few short years has become the most thickly populated district in the City of New York, where the buildings are all modern and sanitary.

You built with even greater foresight than you thought, because now the Dickey heirs, being no longer able to stand the pressure of population, building and business, have ordered me to sell the famous Dickey Estate, "Greenbank," in separate lots, to the public, at whatever price they are willing to pay.

This means more new buildings, more population for Hunts Point-and more pupils for your big public school thereand it should mean big money making opportunities for those that take the time and trouble to investigate these Dickey Estate lots, and attend the Auction Sale and "Buy a Few Lots."
